INSPECT JERSEYS FOR COUNTY HERD

Breeders Boosting for Successful Show Herds Representing County.

Assurance was given that Rock county will have a Jersey herd with the livestock demonstration train by several leading breeders of the county.

Ten or 12 head of the Island cattle are desired to represent the number of splendid herds of the county. The herds of J. O. Douglas and J. W. Smiley, Orfordville, were inspected Tuesday and a number selected by the judges. J. C. J. is being good candidates for show herds.

Other Jersey herds will be inspected later in the week to round out the representative herd.

Two outstanding Milking Shorthorn herds were selected from the fine herd of Irving Rine, whose cattle held production honors in the Shorthorn cow testing association.

Has Good Herd.

The Rock herd not only carries good production abilities but has cattle of correct dual-purpose type—good foundation animals. One of the foundation cows, Dorothy Third, purchased as a yearling from the Little is the highest test cow in the association. Two heifers out of this aged cow were selected, being eligible for produce of dam.

Given time for development Rine will in a few years have a herd of Shorthorns that should achieve national reputation. Some of the young stock was sired by Waukesha City and the herd is now being developed as a good son of Mr. Gypsy Warrior of the Marquette Brothers herd. There are 12 cows in the milk herd. This bunch are topping the county in production and all is needed is showing records to prove their production abilities. He is using a son of Vito Le France and there are several females in the herd that bid fair to honor for the owner and the county.

W. O. Douglas is using a son of Royal Majesty—a good Island type bull, that is expected to stand the test of fair competition. This bull won well on the fair but last year when P. T. North and Douglas took in a series of county fairs.

Boost Show Herds.

Rock county has always been well represented in Chester-White sires by the stock of Bulls and Babcock, Evansville. These veteran breeders will show and several new breeders will be in line for exhibiting.

Feed Rehfield and Son, residing west of Janesville, have a Junior yearling booby-like Jersey named Second—that is a candidate for show honors. Rehfield has a good futurity litter that has been nominated for the state fair.

"We will do anything to help," said the breeders visited Tuesday. "Lacking help and time we cannot take the time from the farm to show livestock. The county herd plans will help us and help the county."

COMMODITY PRICES TO TREND DOWNWARD.
CREDIT MEN TOLD

Milwaukee—Commodity prices undoubtedly have reached their peak. L. L. Newton, manager of the Milwaukee office of the National Statistical organization, told this morning to the 11th annual convention of the Retail Credit Men's National association, which opened here Tuesday.

"Commodity prices should trend downward over the next 20 days, though of course not in straight line," said the speaker.

"Wages should be advanced very cautiously from now on. Cost of living should be held higher this fall. Clothing prices will rise, while food, rent and furniture will remain at about the present levels. Cost of living should be considerably lower after this year."

RULES ANNOUNCED FOR USE OF POOLS

Swims in the high school pools can be had twice or three times weekly by any group large enough, and the only conditions are that periods must be arranged in accordance with the time schedule at Supt. P. O. Holt's office; there must be at least 12 people going in every time the pool is to be used; one must be an experienced swimmer; and that the others; if by instruction is wanted, the group must furnish its own instructor. As a certain expense is caused in order to keep the pools warm enough for use, these conditions are necessary. Arrangements can be made by calling the office of Supt. Holt.

Constant Vigilance the Price of Quality

To the man on the street, cement may seem nothing more than an uninteresting gray powder which is used in construction work. But to the chemist—the trained scientist who knows—it has a pedigree. To him cement is a carefully compounded product, the result of a long series of chemical and mechanical operations, checked by the unremitting watchfulness of modern laboratory skill.

At every stage in its manufacture from quarry to loaded box car, portland cement and the materials from which it is made are subjected to the most exacting scientific tests.

The geologist and the chemist must make their examinations and approve the available raw materials even before the site for a mill is chosen.

Once the mill's machinery is busily making cement, chemists and physicists test raw materials and finished product at least eleven times.

The plant laboratory operates 24 hours a day to maintain constant control on every process. Finally, each carload is sampled before the railroad hauls it away. Cement is a quality product.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:

Condemned in a secret German military court and shot at 2 a. m. Oct. 13, 1915, in Brussels, Edith Cavell, the British nurse has recently had a monument erected in her memory in the center of London.

The speedy court-martial and execution has generally been attributed to General Von Bissing, at that time governor of Brussels, but a letter from Baron Von Der Lancken to the foreign secretary which recently has been made public seems to fix the responsibility for the act upon General Von Sauterwitz.

Baron Von Der Lancken was in Brussels at the time as an observer for the German imperial chancellery. He wrote the following letter: "The Cavell affair is known to your excellency in all its details. The effect of it has been what I predicted to General Von Sauterwitz in an interview I had with him, without, however, being able to convince him of the folly of his viewpoint regarding the opportunity of this execution."

General Von Sauterwitz had the authority to prolong the order and give additional time for an appeal to the emperor. To do this he would only have had to withhold his confirmation of the sentence of the court.

I send you a photograph of the memorial which is erected in the heart of London. On my last sojourn in Europe I saw strong men and women stand at the base, riveted to the spot and weeping like children.

HUBER QUILTS FIGHT FEARING DEFEAT

Unemployment Insurance Bill Will Not be Presented Again to This Legislature.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison—Unemployment insurance is not to come before the Wisconsin legislature at the present session as a square presented issue, Senator Harry Huber, author of the pending unemployment insurance bill, said Wednesday.

He declared that the whole question involved in his proposal would more than likely be referred to an interim committee through adoption of the Titus substitute amendment to be voted on probably the last of this week.

Senators See Defeat

Senators of all factions say that the bill providing for establishment of compulsory job insurance would meet defeat by a two or three margin majority should it come directly before the upper house. They point out that the lines are so drawn that the proposal faces certain defeat at the present session.

It is explained that for this reason the proponents of the measure are willing that it be submitted to an interim committee for study. At the end of two years this committee report would be submitted to the legislature with definite recommendation.

The Huber unemployment insurance bill has attracted widespread attention throughout the country, and has caused a stir among Wisconsin business men, many of whom have opposed the bill at the several committee hearings. Several times the senate was on the verge of voting on the bill, but each time action was delayed at the request of the proposal's sponsor.

At present the finance committee has the matter under consideration.

There cannot be many flies left in Janesville—1,900 were taken to the Apollo theater Monday night, the first day of the fly-killing contest. It is requested that flies be brought in en masse, 50 in each, and that they be brought the night before the person desires to attend. It is expected there will be a big rush over the week-end, when thousands will be responsible for the death of many flies.

40 PCT. DECREASE IN ROLL OF HONOR

Jefferson Heads List of 53 Pupils With 16, Adams Is Second With 10.

With the Jefferson school showing an advance in the number on the roll of honor for the full school year just closed and with all other schools showing a great decrease, roll of honor totals but 53 this year, as compared with 86 last year. This is much less than the roll was in former years, when pupils fought sickness and made it a point to be in the honor roll at the end of the year. Now other school duties have more or less crowded out thought of this, and there are many grades reporting none on the roll. Again, it may have been the terrible weather of March that helps account for the small list.

WARNING

You who use Palmolive Soap use it for beauty's sake. Be careful that you get it. There are many soaps made to deceive you. They imitate the shape and color. Names are coined to sound like Palmolive. Numerous soaps—some of them wretched soaps—are put in this guise to mislead you.

Our interests do not matter, but yours do. Your demand is for Palmolive, because of what it does. You are seeking certain proved results. And you are cheated when you get a soap which can't bring those results.

Palmolive Soap has world-wide fame because it aids complexions.

The envied results, seen everywhere, have won millions of people to it. Thus Palmolive became the world's leading toilet soap. Not merely because of olive oil—that's ages old. Not merely because of palm oil—Cleopatra used that. But because our experts found a way to give those oils unique efficiency in soap.

It is Palmolive Soap that has won beauty lovers as no other soap ever did. It is the Palmolive blend—based on 60 years of study—that brings those desired results. It is Palmolive which, by enormous production, gives you a 25-cent quality for 10 cents.

That is what won you—that is what you want. A commonplace soap without those virtues will not suit or serve you. Then be careful. Note the name carefully. Be sure you get the wrapper shown below. Don't let anybody cheat you on a thing that means so much.

The Success of Governor Preus.

It is a significant result in the presidential primary in Minnesota with the nomination of Governor Preus as a candidate for the United States senate on the republican ticket and the defeat of the numerous candidates on the Farmer-Labor ticket by Magnus Johnson. The latter is far from being the radical that Shipstead is. Johnson's defeat of Dr. Fritzsche, notorious during the war for his pro-German sentiments, and the disturbances in the state over the New Ulm situation, was clear and definite.

Governor Preus won in a field of nine candidates, many of them men of note in Minnesota and having large personal followings. But the merits of the governor were conceded and his qualifications admitted. He gained strength also by calling the primary and not resigning and accepting the appointment as senator as he had been advised to do by many of his friends. It has been shown that of the republicans, Governor Preus is the strongest man in the state. The conflict now will be at the election on July 16 between Preus and Johnson. While the democrats have made a nomination it will amount to about as much as the nomination made in Wisconsin in 1922. Mrs. Olson was unable to obtain the strength of her party then and the democratic candidate, now James A. Carley, is not believed to be as strong as was the woman candidate, last fall. Governor Preus has a clean record. He has made an able governor and will be nearer a follower of the footsteps of that plain old man, Knute Nelson, than any other before the people in the state.

According to Mr. Mead the dries win overwhelmingly for a few weeks.

Getting Down to Business

The announcement of the city council that a selection for city manager had been made, comes as a welcome piece of news to the Janesville public. The council itself was elected to select a manager on whose shoulders the burden of city direction will fall heaviest. The Gazette holds no brief for James B. Ayter. He was a good citizen when here—a man of action and interested in public affairs. He shirked no public duty and in the brief period of his residence was often consulted. He has a reputation of successful conduct of large corporation businesses. That is the very foundation of city management. The city is the corporation, the voters are the stockholders and a manager must represent the interests of these men and women alone. All political considerations should, and of a needs' must be, eliminated. It matters not so much what the name of the manager may be, where he comes from or what he has done, but it does matter greatly, whether he may be able to achieve the goal in conducting city business of obtaining a hundred cents out of every dollar the taxpayers contribute for the operation of the city. That is all there is to it. And under such a manager merit and qualification alone will count in getting or holding a city job.

President Harding might give a lift to the Rhinelander girl who plans to walk to Alaska.

Washing Down the Lake Level.

Justice Carpenter in Chicago has taken the first step in a decision against the sanitary district of Chicago, to preserve the great lakes for navigation and not merely as wash-water for a sewerage system. The battle has been long against the constantly lowering level of the lakes. We have seen necessity for many millions of dollars spent in dredging and new docks caused by the outflow of water through the drainage canal. It was an unnatural drain and as an engineering fact, was equally as well known to Chicago as to the residents of cities on both sides of Lake Michigan, the most affected of the fine lakes by the flow. Wisconsin attempted, and under Attorney General Morgan, did achieve, some position in the courts in the actions instigated by him only to have Governor Blaine after a visit to Chicago, issue instructions to stop all action. Chicago sold the sanitary canal plan to the governor completely and it is only in recent weeks that so strong representations have been made as to the actual facts that he has come to a different conclusion. The injunction granted by Justice Carpenter permits a suspension so that the whole matter may be reviewed by the supreme court of the United States and at that time Wisconsin ought to be represented by its ablest counsel. This state has much at interest and while lake cities are directly involved, yet all the rest of the state is deeply concerned.

Oscar Underwood has been endorsed for the presidency by the Alabama democratic state committee. It is a long way from Alabama to Wyoming on the roll call of a national convention.

Sunday was the 148th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill when the English red coats learned for the first time the deadly aim of the colonists.

Senator Ridgway showed he had a mind of his own when he voted against the Blaine tax bill. Apparently he does not expect the governor to name him a member of the board of control now.

BUSINESS BOOM FOR MEXICO

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The joint commission of special diplomatic representatives of the United States and Mexico is expected to complete its work within a week or two. On the basis of the report brought in, a treaty will be drawn by the state department of the United States and the Mexican foreign office which will provide for the recognition by this government of the Obregon government in Mexico.

This settlement is expected to be the signal for a boom of tremendous proportions in Mexico. Observers familiar with the circumstances and with the plans of Americans interested in the southern republic, declare that the recognition will bring about a movement somewhat comparable to the gold rush to California in 1849. The big difference will be that while the California gold rush was an exodus of individual adventurers, the Mexican rush will be one of corporations.

For more than a decade industrial development of all kinds has been practically suspended in Mexico. Ever since the fall of the government of old Porfirio Diaz who was dictator of Mexico for so long, business has been almost at a standstill. Disturbed political conditions have discouraged foreigners from developing their properties and the violence of bandits has made the country a dangerous field for new enterprises.

A vast amount of American capital is invested in Mexico and for about fifteen years it has been practically idle. This investment is held by great corporations chiefly, but they number among their stockholders thousands of individual Americans. Silver mines, gold mines, copper mines, oil wells, electric plantations, rubber and coffee plantations, cattle ranches and many other kinds of industrial enterprises are owned in whole or in part by these American corporations.

Efforts to work these industries during the long years of political turbulence, of banditry and severed diplomatic relations have been discouraging. Americans sent there to work have been robbed, injured and even killed. The Mexican labor available has been poor and terrorized. The result has been that little has been done.

Another element which has suspended development has been the uncertainty of the title to lands and industrial properties claimed by Americans because of the action of the Mexican government in interpreting the Mexican law. It has been claimed that many American companies have no right to their properties, particularly in the oil fields. Article 27 of the Mexican constitution, which has been relied upon by the Mexican officials to invade the American titles, has been the principal bone of contention.

It is anticipated that John Barton Payne and Charles B. Warren, the American treaty commissioners now working on the settlement, will straighten out these difficulties. Indeed, there will be no treaty unless they are straightened out, but reports from the commission indicate that compromises are being arrived at which will settle these questions.

A general settlement and the conclusion of a treaty of commerce and amity, entailing official recognition by the United States of the Obregon government will bring all these ills to an end. Once more the great and wealthy country of Mexico will be thrown open to the world. The result almost certainly will be the influx of new floods of American capital to rehabilitate the old mines and oil fields and plantations.

Foreigners' lives and properties will be protected under the new regime and business will be resumed as it was in the old days. Work will be given thousands of Mexicans at good wages and dividends will again begin to come out of that country. The commerce between the United States and Mexico is expected to revive on a large scale. An American ambassador will be established at Mexico City and a Mexican ambassador will join the diplomatic corps at Washington.

Aware of the impending settlement, American corporations are already buying plans for going into Mexico and working their holdings on a renewed scale. Great development along new lines is expected. Mexico has many rushing rivers which will be harnessed with hydro-electric power plants to work new mines and mills. New cattle will be put on the broad ranges. The great cotton plantations and farms will be worked and their products sent to market.

In the last year the rubber companies have become much interested in Central American rubber production. Chianpas, the southernmost state of Mexico, has an ideal climate for the production of rubber and it is expected that there will be considerable exploitation along this line there.

Several new railroads have been projected and will be built, with the aid of American capital. These lines will open up whole new areas for development, producing fresh wealth both for Mexicans and for the American participants. One of the first steps which it is expected the government of Mexico will take is the floating of a loan in the United States. Probably about $100,000,000 will be sought. These bonds will be underwritten by American banks and then sold to the public. This money will be used by Mexico in rehabilitating her internal affairs and in effecting many improvements. The terms of the treaty doubtless will provide for the acceptance of the foreign policy of the country for the protection of foreigners and considerable sums necessarily will be spent on this.

Mexico's finances are in excellent shape. Her per capita debt is one of the smallest in the world. With a bankrupt country American bankers would regard Mexican bonds as gilt-edged investments.

The reason Mexico needs outside capital and industrial genius to develop her great natural resources is that a large proportion of her population consists of native Yagui or half-breed Indians. While many of these make good farmers and laborers under competent direction, they lack energy and mechanical genius to initiate and carry out large enterprises. This energy and genius will be furnished by Americans to a large extent and to an additional extent by British and French companies.

If the governor respects a man who will vote as he pleases and not for political buncombe he will name the senator in spite of the vote.

Britain paid the United States $70,000,000 interest and principal on the debt she owes and other payments will follow. Britain at least pays her obligations when she agrees to them.

Fire departments will be on the alert against fires annually caused by the firecracker. Death has already been reported of a child who ate a concoction known as a "spit devil." It was.

RESIGNATION AND WORRY.

I've made up my mind that I can't escape
The jagged driver forever.
Some motor car some day will mangle my shape,
Though at dodging I'm agile and clever;
Some day I shall falter and fail to be spry
And under the wheels of a car I shall die.

I had hoped I might peacefully pass in my bed,
But I know that the fates will not let me.
The time was my pet and peculiar dread
Was that some day a motor would get me.
But that I'm resigned to—mid honkings and
And the squeaking of brakes I shall die in my boots.

I expect to go down in the front of a car
Which some half-way demon is driving:
To be bumped off at last with a jolt and a jar,
To the shock of my loved ones surviving.
Now I wonder whenever I travel the street
What kind of a car will knock me off of my feet.

Will I die in a Buick, a Packard, a Paige,
Will an Overland batter and maim me?
Will a Lincoln bear down and rob me of old age
Or a Cadillac humiliate me?
Or will I be sent to make peace with my Lord
At the hands of a demon who's driving a Ford?

STUNG AGAIN.

The automatic telephone.
You get your number all alone.
Your finger in the little wheel.
You press a button, make your spiel,
And to an unknown you impart
The secrets of your inner heart.

You discuss your financial ills,
And tell of your financial spills.
You talk in perfect confidence
Of comely maidens and of goats.

And then you blithely try your luck
At borrowing needling from a hook.

You have great faith in this new thing
Because it's secret and you sing
The latest gossip o'er the wire
Till you arouse the latent fire.

In some low voice you never heard,
And thus yells some ear-splitting word:
"Say, who do you think your 'dink' is?"
This number's Main 5-6-4-2."

Who's Who Today

His recent startling experiments with artificial lighting and high tension currents has brought Giuseppe Faccioli into prominence of late.

The electrical world has known much of Faccioli for years. He is Steinmetz's only rival. But the general public knew little of Faccioli until he unleashed bolts of lightning the other day. Faccioli is like Steinmetz in many ways. He is a cripple, for one thing. He does all his work in a wheel chair. And like Steinmetz, has overcome this handicap and the pain that it accompanies by his work with high-power transmission and other angles of electricity.

He received his education and early experience in his homeland, Italy. He was Milan and after leaving that institution, spent some years designing alternate current machinery.

He came to the U. S. when twenty-five and obtained work with the New York Edison company. Then, to further his studies in transit work, he joined the Interborough company in New York. In 1904 he went to the Crocker-Wheeler company to study the manufacture of the electrical business and while there was offered the post of assistant chief of the Stanley laboratories. This plan later was absorbed by the General Electric company and when the consolidation took place he remained with the concern and is now chief electrical engineer.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

June 20, 1883.—Grand Temple of the Temple of Honor in Wisconsin met in the hall of Crystal Temple of Honor today, with many state leaders present. Report of Grand Recorder S. C. Burnham showed that more temples had surrendered their charters than had taken new charters and that more than 700 were put out for expelling the pledge.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

June 20, 1893.—No local saloon-keepers have made application for licenses, although today is the day. The state legislature made a popular blunder which the legislature has granted the second week in June to last until the second week in the following July. Local men will not apply until after the second week in July, thus cutting the Gordian knot.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

June 20, 1903.—Joseph DeJean, one of the first settlers of the city, is visiting in the city at the home of his nephew, Scott Smith, Milton avenue, and is recalling old times here when houses were few and the hall of the village was Evanston, where he attended the reunion of his class which graduated 20 years ago. Dr. Frank Pember is also a member of the class.

TEN YEARS AGO

June 20, 1913.—J. F. Sweeney, for the past 20 years landlord of Grand hotel, has sold the property to some Kenosha parties—Charles Wild and W. B. Smith. Mr. Sweeney's plans are not complete. Jefferson and Webster schools have been decided upon as first playgrounds, and the work will be more or less an experiment. Equipment is being ordered.

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; bring an offering, and come before him; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.—1 Chronicles 16:29.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Why not, some time, an exhaustive article on snoring? suggests a reader. The main cause of snoring is relaxation of the palate. Now one can produce a nice gentlemanly kind of snore with his mouth or lips closed, but this is rare. One can also produce a kind of snore with his mouth wide open—this is the deplorable snore which breaks up families. It takes a wife of more than the sternest endurance to live with a man who turns off this deaf rattle through the hideous hours of the night, a blood curdling sound which has extraordinary carrying power and penetrates to the farthest corners of the house, sometimes seeming to cause the very timbers to tremble.

There is one thing I think I know about snoring—I don't know, but I just think I know it—a course of half a dozen nose treatments by a doctor who treats nose and throat troubles, will frequently bring peace and happiness to the estranged family. The doctor takes a survey of the interior of the nose by means of his little head light or mirror and sprays, muzzles something about turbinal hypertrophy or intumescent rhinitis or thickening of the inferior turbinate and proceeds to dab it up with something that bites and smart for a time. Some of these sprays repeated every few days for a few times restores "nose" to the congested, swollen, relaxed lining of the back part of the nose cavity. Presumably, the wife returns from the attic and sleeps sweetly in her own trundle bed once more, secure for a time from hideous disturbance.

I don't know any more about snoring. But I see we have a few inches of space left, so I'll add a conjecture or theory I have on the subject. Many of the snoring persons, either sex, and I think I can pick out almost at a glance the snorers. I'm almost certain I could pick them out if I had the hundred persons who walk about and do one or two simple little physical movements for me. My action is that one in good physical trim, in vigorous condition, not abnormally stout, will not snore. Snoring much with his or her snoring, but that the individual whose body is flabby from neglect of physical training, exercise, is likely to perpetrate some death delaying deeds along this line, especially when he or she happens to have a slight congestion incident to a cold or a sore throat or anything like that.

So there you are. An exhaustive monograph on snoring; brief as it is, I flatter myself there isn't much more to be said on the subject and less one should append a complete lexicon of euphemisms for the use of members of the snorer's household.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Neurasthenia.
Have been troubled with neurasthenia for the last two years, causing my hands to swell and be very painful. (P. C.)

Answer.—Surely, the swelling of your hands cannot be caused by neurasthenia. Your doctor consult a physician about your hands.

Not Weak Kidneys.
Our baby, now 27 months old, still wets the bed. Is this an indication of weak kidneys or any condition requiring medical attention? (Mrs. R. G. E.)

Answer.—Lack of control of the bladder, or, in other words, enuresis, is not attributable to "weak kidneys" or any kidney trouble at all. Many children do not acquire complete control of the bladder until they are 3 years old. Under that age, patient care and training is sufficient.

Get Back.
Is it possible to remove tattoo marks from the skin, plain black ink? (Jannette.)

Answer.—Nothing short of surgical destruction or removal of the individual cells of skin will remove tattoo marks. This kind of mutilation ought to be legally punishable. It carries some time at Atlantic City. The victim comes to regret bitterly.

Nine Miles on the Board Walk.
A doctor lecturing on health recommended a non-meat diet with plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit. My wife and I (both overweight) have tried it for a month and sleep better, no aches or pains, no laziness, no spring fever. Spending some time at Atlantic City. Don't want to be in error, however, and should like to have your advice as to what lengths a vegetarian diet may be carried. (R. E. R.)

Answer.—Nine miles on the board walk every day. But don't believe the yarns the folks tell about the length of the walk; wear a pedometer and watch it shrink. For overfed and underexercised people such a diet as you have been trying is fine, for a few months will show it. I think people who take a reasonable amount of exercise, or work or play daily, should have some meat once or twice a week.

Q. How many negroes were in slavery at the time of the civil war? M. R. H.

A. The number of negroes who were in slavery previous to President Lincoln's proclamation of 1863 was estimated at 3,953,760. The number of free negroes in the country at the time was 480,000. The negro population has more than doubled since that time.

Q. What countries have the greatest railway mileage? J. M.

A. The United States has the greatest mileage; Russian is second, Canada third.

Q. When was industrial arbitration first resorted to in order to settle labor disputes? N. O. H.

A. The first definite provision of this sort for the settlement of industrial disputes seems to have been the tribunal established before the French revolution at Lyons, France, for the settlement of controversies in the silk industry. Though this tribunal was abolished in 1791, it had previously set the example.

Q. Who said that the brain of an ant is the most marvelous thing in the world? S. S.

A. This version of the statement is incorrect. Darwin called this pinhead brain of the ant the most marvelous thing in the world.

Q. I understand that Washington polo players have a hand with which they call the "Washington Monument." What is it? L. D. G.

A. In Washington polo games a hand consisting of three fingers is sometimes called the "Washington Monument" as in other games three fingers are called "thirty-miles." The Washington Monument is 555 feet high.

Q. How much brighter is full daylight than full moonlight? F. M.

A. Recent experiments have proved the full daylight is about 600,000 times brighter than full moonlight.

Q. How many canals are there across the Pacific to the Orient? L. E. D.

A. There are two. One is from San Francisco to Japan, and the other from British Columbia to Australia, and thence to the Orient. These two canals can not handle the business to the Orient, and the world's commerce has asked congress to appropriate money for another.

Daily—sometimes twice a day—your steamer stops for an hour or two at a little town on the coast and there you get fascinating glimpses of Indians and totem-poles and fox-farms and copper mines. It is all very wonderful.

Two teams, the Knights of Columbus and the Lakotas club, are in first place in the city kitten ball circuit Wednesday following the result of games in the second clash at the fair grounds Tuesday night. Neither of these organizations has lost a game to date.

The Knights were put to it hard Tuesday before they won from the Gazette. The score of this affair was 3 to 0. Heavy slugging featured on both sides for the first three innings. Then the teams settled down to a rich, but not very hot, game in which there were no scores.

In the first frame, the K. of C. led 10 to 0 with four runs. When the Gazette came to bat, three tallies crossed the pan. The newspaper men tied it up in the second frame at 5 all. The followers of Columbus piled over three runs in the next frame to clinch the affair. Raubacher featured with a homer.

LAKOTA INDIANS SLUG

PARKER PENS 10 TO 8

The whole tribe, Lakota, landed on the 12-inch apple Tuesday night in the first inning and got away to a 9 run lead before the Parker Pens could run out the "Lucky Curve".

The result was a 19 to 8 victory for the leading young men's club of the city.

After that big first frame, the Lakotas got only one run until the fifth when they piled in three more and came across in the succeeding stanza with five more, closing the affair with a lone score in the seventh.

The Parkers batted steadily. After two runs made in the first and second, they found themselves in the third and made five. They brought home three more after that, but that was all.

KIWANIS GETS WIN.

BEATS ELKS 13 TO 11

The Kiwanis club shot into the lead with a 13 to 11 victory by nipping the Elks lodge for a 13 to 11 victory.

Six runs snacked across the plate in the third inning followed by three more in the fourth gave the "Builders" a lead which the boys of "Brotherly Love" could not overcome. These nine runs were added to two made in the second.

The Elks took the lead in the second, third and fifth frames, and put over three in the sixth and two in the seventh in a great fight that was going every minute. Although the Kiwanians had the lead in the sixth and another in the seventh, they were held down closer in these frames—dramatically so.

KITTY! KITTY! KITTY!

The cheering of the 100 players was so great that Irving (Doc Meow) Clark, insulator of the circuit, heard it over in Macy hospital where he is cutting up after being cut up.

Ralph Morse hit a homer for the Elks and thought he had done enough for the evening so fanned the rest of the way.

George Sennett, star K. of C. first baseman, was spiked but recovered.

Ambrose Olson, who works in the city water office (make your own pun) is some catcher for the Elks.

Bob Cunningham of the Lakotas says that Schiffelbein, who finished the pitching task for the Parkers, has a lucky curve.

Owen Trevorrah, son of Little Frank, played a spectacular game at third for the Kiwanis.

Catches made in the outfield by Fire, Schoenig and Kaivalge of the Gazette were good.

The umpiring is meeting with approval of players. Clem Tuttle and Frank Rider did exceptionally good work Tuesday. "Pete" Johnson also was on the job.

Session on Carp Called Thursday; Hold at Edgerton

Another step in the solution of the carp problem of southern Wisconsin is expected to be taken at a meeting of legislative representatives of Izak Walton at Edgerton Thursday night. Elmer S. Hall, state conservation commissioner, is expected to be present. Janesville, Edgerton and Fort Atkinson clubs will be present.

By FRANK SINCLAIR

ATHLETIC recognition does not always go to the fellow who wins prominence. The latest example of award to the chap who fights for his school, this week, the door not make the varsity comes from Princeton where the Tigers are made. The Lyman Biddle crew prize this year was given to John Short Wright, Philadelphia. The decision has aroused considerable interest throughout the east.

WRIGHT never rowed on the varsity eight. Yet the members of the crew selected him for this highest rowing honor because of his fine sportsmanship and fighting spirit exhibited in his four years at college. Wright stroked the 1923 freshman eight during his first year at college, stroked the 1924 crew in his sophomore year, stroked the third varsity crew in 1925 and rowed how on the junior varsity crew during the last season.

THE SAME athletes who recognized the worth of Wright presented a cup to Capt. John Pirie who was forced to give up his berth at stroke on the varsity because of lack of weight, but kept on plugging with the other oarsmen. That knack of getting your teeth and fighting for the good of the whole knowing that you will receive none of the outstanding honors for yourself is the real stuff that develops from sports.

Sarazen, Black and Jones Enter National Open Golf

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York.—Judging from advance indications this year's open golf championship will surpass in numbers all past championships. Already 50 entries have been listed and still two weeks remain before closing. The bulk of entries will not begin to come until a few days before closing. Last year 325 faced the starter at Skokie. It will not be surprising if this year's field reaches 500.

Last year the admission of late arrivals made the field three ways for the first three days of qualifying play and of making the pairings more difficult than should have been. This year it is proposed to have every thing in absolute readiness so there will be no confusion as to pairings and starting times.

The three outstanding figures in last year's thrilling finish at Skokie will be on hand for this year's contest. Bobby Jones, who tied with John Black for second place, a stroke back of Gene Sarazen, has made his entry. Black will be on hand. He is now at the Wichita Country club and has fully recovered from the effects of the automobile accident last summer which came near costing his life. He is reported to be playing quite as well as ever. Of course, Champion Sarazen will be present to defend his laurels. Riddle Knappier, of Sioux City, Ia., another brilliant amateur who has already sent in his entry.

Sarazen Falls First Time

Incidental to Gene Sarazen's failure to qualify in the British open at Troon, it may be noted this is the first time he failed in any qualifying test. He failed in the first national championship, 1920, at Toledo. In every other event he has always landed well within the select circle. His failure cuts the percentage of American home-bred professionals to qualify in their first attempt for the British open to one in three. Jack Dermott, the first to go over, failed on his first try. He qualified on his first try, but finished 50th in the tournament. Now comes Sarazen, who falls by a stroke.

Great Falls, Mont.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, Wednesday starts his final two weeks of training for the defense of his title against Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Mont., July 4, with the worry of a slight cold on his mind but otherwise, according to his handlers, in as perfect shape as he ever has been two weeks before a contest.

Incidental to Gene Sarazen's failure to qualify in the British open at Troon, it may be noted this is the first time he failed in any qualifying test. He failed in the first national championship, 1920, at Toledo. In every other event he has always landed well within the select circle. His failure cuts the percentage of American home-bred professionals to qualify in their first attempt for the British open to one in three. Jack Dermott, the first to go over, failed on his first try. He qualified on his first try, but finished 50th in the tournament. Now comes Sarazen, who falls by a stroke.

Chasing the Flags

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York.—Judging from advance indications this year's open golf championship will surpass in numbers all past championships. Already 50 entries have been listed and still two weeks remain before closing. The bulk of entries will not begin to come until a few days before closing. Last year 325 faced the starter at Skokie. It will not be surprising if this year's field reaches 500.

Last year the admission of late arrivals made the field three ways for the first three days of qualifying play and of making the pairings more difficult than should have been. This year it is proposed to have every thing in absolute readiness so there will be no confusion as to pairings and starting times.

The three outstanding figures in last year's thrilling finish at Skokie will be on hand for this year's contest. Bobby Jones, who tied with John Black for second place, a stroke back of Gene Sarazen, has made his entry. Black will be on hand. He is now at the Wichita Country club and has fully recovered from the effects of the automobile accident last summer which came near costing his life. He is reported to be playing quite as well as ever. Of course, Champion Sarazen will be present to defend his laurels. Riddle Knappier, of Sioux City, Ia., another brilliant amateur who has already sent in his entry.

He refers to the removal of Raskalninkov from Kabul, Afghanistan, as an internal affair of Russia, which neither gives nor demands one-sided obligations regarding her representation in a third country.

It was against the activities of Lieut. Raskalninkov that the British government especially protested.

CHARITY WORKER BACKS LOAN BILL

Rev. Henry Willmann in Favor of Sachtjen Bill to Aid Needy.

Wisconsin has long been fairly about providing a place where "little people" without bank credit could borrow small sums of money to be repaid in weekly and monthly installments. The Rev. Henry Willmann, secretary of the Associated Charities here, when asked about the Sachtjen bill, 314-A, now before the legislature, providing for uniform small loans, said the Rev. Mr. Willmann has considerable experience in handling such loans and is frequently called upon for them.

This is the fourth time these needy people without bank credit have said to the legislature, "Provide us a place where we may borrow small sums when necessary demands it," said the Rev. Mr. Willmann. "These 20 per cent. enjoying bank loan service through bank credit are provided for; why should not the 80 per cent. enjoy a loan service at a sustaining rate, one that will insure a going concern for that purpose? The Russell-Serra Foundation's eight years' survey disclosed the fact that fully 80 per cent. of our population are without bank credit, and the demand from among them for small loans is a continuous one and should be met in a practical way."

Used in Ten States
"The uniform small loan law drafted by them in 1915 has been enacted by the states of Maine, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Arizona, Indiana, and Illinois, and it has met the demand for small loans in such a satisfactory way that not a state enjoying this loan service has ever repealed the uniform law or reduced the rate. This fact evidences a public recognition of this law in the states named, and most surely justifies the rate emphasized for this class of risky loans. In this connection it might be well to state that whatever you may think of the uniform law, the present conditions here are five times or more worse than the remedy proposed by 314-A, by Sachtjen."

One-Third of Present Rate
"One only needs to know that the rate proposed by the Sachtjen bill is approximately one-third the minimum rate now charged by the high rate lenders of Milwaukee and other industrial centers. This fact certainly justifies the enactment without delay of this constructive and remedial piece of legislation. To further emphasize this legislation would indicate that it is more important to permit the high rate lender to flourish than it is to rescue the needy poor from their clutches and at a rate that will eliminate the loan shark from Wisconsin, as has been done by the neighboring states of Michigan, Iowa, and Illinois. Wisconsin has now more uniform laws to her credit than any other state, and let us keep her up to the front by putting this uniform law on the books without further delay. Those having bank credit, 20 per cent. of our population, are not interested in this loan service, but they will certainly feel that the 80 per cent. should have some place to borrow when necessary demands it, and at a rate in keeping with the risk and expense involved. There seems to be but two classes of people opposed to this remedial legislation. One class we can learn—those who are uninformed and those who are directly or indirectly interested in high rate lending. It is unbelievable that the Wisconsin legislature will not respond to this much needed legislation, and do it now."

RAILROAD BOARD'S IMPOTENCE SHOWN IN PENN REBUKE

is expected to discuss the transportation problem in detail. He has outlined in great detail to congressmen the attitude of certain railroad executives and it is an open secret that practically the entire administration before the Pennsylvania railroad is thoughtlessly adding to the nation's problems by denying the spirit of the transportation act insofar as it relates to persons of the U. S. railway labor board. Congress created that tribunal as a means of preventing strikes. It was thought that when the board would issue its decisions both parties to the controversy would have sufficient respect for an institution created by the congress of the United States and approved by the chief executive as to give it moral support.

The U. S. railroad labor board didn't mince words in its denunciation of the tactics of the Pennsylvania, declaring that the latter "while professing its acceptance and observance of this principle of employee representation, the carrier had set up a system which throttles the majority and establishes the representation of a propped and subservient minority."

Unions on the Pennsy
This language is descriptive of the so-called "shop union" system whereby the Pennsylvania railroad employed the formation of unions through leaders more or less friendly to the employers themselves. These unions alone were recognized, and representatives of the workers had to be employed of course, that if they became too active in behalf of the workers they might be in danger of losing their jobs, and if they lost their jobs they couldn't represent the workers any longer.

The American Federation of Labor contends that a union representative must be free from coercion and must be paid by the dues of his fellow workers so that his job isn't in jeopardy when he argues vehemently with an employer. This in effect is the view now taken by the United States labor board, which points out that workers have a right to select their own representatives and that employers should deal with the representatives chosen by the workers.

The whole trouble has come over the question of whether the representatives chosen by the American Federation of Labor working on the Pennsylvania were elected by a majority of the workers, but the Pennsylvania has declined to count certain ballots cast by the men or to abide by the rules for a fair election set up by the U. S. railway labor board.

Significance of Rebuke
The significance of the rebuke given the Pennsylvania is that other railroads in the United States have been preparing to follow the lead of the big eastern system. Undoubtedly the attitude of the Pennsylvania will become a matter of discussion in the next congress unless there is a complete reversal of Pennsylvania policy before next autumn and it would not be surprising if the demand for teeth in the transportation act now proposed from labor sources as a means of compelling railroad employers to abide by the spirit of the act, should be made an issue. Usually employing interests have sought to put more enforcing power in labor statutes so as to prevent strikes, but labor leaders are beginning to wonder if with the shoe on the other foot public opinion will be as drastic with an offending employer as it has been in the past with the offending employee. Mr. Harding probably will deal with certain phases of this controversy on his western trip.

FOOTVILLE WANTS ROUTE 20 BUILT

Get Started This Year on Something, Declared Sentiment of Village.

Regardless of what route, build on Route 20 west from Janesville this year is the sentiment of Footville and Orfordville. E. H. Silverthorn, Footville representative on the county board, said Tuesday when interviewed concerning what would be his attitude at the special meeting of the county board to be called for Thursday, June 28.

Mr. Silverthorn said that the route should be built in near to Footville as possible. He declared the paving of the route through Hanover as it now runs out of the question with the opposition shown by the state highway commission on account of railroad crossings. The Footville supervisor said that whatever the state highway commission decided, would meet with approval of Footville.

"To accommodate Hanover the road could be turned one mile south from the end of the five miles routed by the state highway commission and then straight west," said Mr. Silverthorn. "It would bring it within a mile of Hanover and a half or three-quarters of a mile from Footville. We want the road to go where it will accommodate the most people. We have no quarrel with Orfordville as the village board of that place favored the route laid out by the state highway commission."

The Footville supervisor predicted a satisfactory settlement for relocation of the route of 20 from Janesville to the Green county line would be made at the special meeting that he is formally scheduled as a part of the state highway system and this being done work started on the five miles as soon as possible.

Class of '22 Has Reunion Tonight

Seventy members of the June, 1922, class of the J. H. S. are starting what they hope will be a custom. Wednesday night, when they have a banquet and reunion in the high school cafeteria, and to carry out this reunion scheme a dance will be held in the gymnasium at 9 p. m. of all young men and women who have ever attended Janesville high school. If one person of a couple is an alumnus, alumnus, or has attended the school, the couple will be admitted, and it is hoped to have many more than the 100 couples who have already given indication of attending by purchasing tickets. The Treasurers orchestra, Chicago, will play. Cyril Rosebo, secretary of the class, will preside at the banquet. Prin. and Mrs. W. W. Brown and others will chaperone the dance.

Athletic Field Grading Finished

Grading of the athletic field north of the high school has been completed by R. J. Walsh, Beloit, contractor, and his force of men has been able to cover the field with good dirt and seed it, but this will not be done until more favorable weather, the present being too dry and warm. The short campus between the north side of the school and this field will also be graded later by Mr. Walsh. All the work will then have been completed and the Janesville high school will boast of being one of the handsomest, grounds and all, in the northwest.

Lee Scheduled to Address Clerks

County Clerk Howard W. Lee hopes to attend the 18th annual convention of the Wisconsin County Clerks' association at Ashland July 23-24-25. He will take the program taking the negative side of the question "Should the County Clerks' Association and the County Boards' Association Affiliate?" Joseph G. Lazarsky, Keweenaw, will take the affirmative. A. E. Hirst, state highway commissioner, and Attorney General Herman Ekorn are on the program.

Janesville Bids for Band Tourney

Janesville and Richland Center have extended invitations to the Wisconsin Boys' band association to hold the 1924 tournament in these cities. It was learned Tuesday. The place of the meeting will be decided at the November meeting of the board. It would bring more than 650 boys to Janesville for the three days of the tournament.

CLEMONS TRUSTEE FOR MACE & TATMAN

Fred L. Clemons, Janesville, was named trustee in the bankruptcy hearing of Mace and Tatman, former Janesville billiard hall owners, Monday afternoon in Madison. The local men also filed a petition through their attorney, Charles E. Enslow, for discharge of their personal debts along with their business liabilities.
